SMALL PACKAGES

Leaving half-used bottles of wine are a thing of the past if winemakers like Little Penguin, Blue Fish, Fish Eye, George Duboeuf, and French Rabbit have their way. The new trend in wine is size, and this summer found wine being poured from single-serving mini-bottles and juice box-sized cartons. Convenient and portable, these minis are popping up at parties everywhere and, as the perfect accoutrement, will only continue to flourish in the wine category. According to global market researchers A.C. Nielsen, "personal-sized" wines grew 15 percent this past year and won't slow down. Waste not, want not—swirl, sip, and swallow.
